Sharon Mohler's tiny, sculpted scenes of life, brimming with humorous, sometimes outrageous, and often loving moments, are a delight. She calls them "The Ballads of 81 years."

"My pieces tell the same stories that sung ballads would if I were a better musician." The pieces were created over the last 40 years. Every piece tells a story, some tell many stories. "There are four ingredients in my work, polymer clay, wire, acrylic paint and my imagination."

Bruce Parker and Deb Henderson have been helping with this catalogue show. She has a memory stick with the pictures of some of his work for a virtual catalogue show.
